

What is a “Conflicts Disclosure Statement” and Do I have to File One?

H.B. 914, passed during the 2005 legislative session, becomes effective January 1, 2006. The bill enacts Local Government Code Chapter 176, which requires a mayor, council members, a city manager or administrator, and certain other city officers, to file a “conflicts disclosure statement” with a city’s records administrator (usually the city secretary) within seven days of becoming aware of either of the following situations:

- When an officer or the officer’s family member has an employment or business relationship that results in taxable income with a person who has contracted with the local governmental entity or with whom the local governmental entity is considering doing business.
- When an officer or the officer’s family member receives and accepts one or more gifts with an aggregate value of $250 in the preceding 12 months from a person who conducts business or is being considered for business with the officer’s local governmental entity.

The bill also requires a vendor that wishes to conduct business or be considered for business with a city to file a “conflict of interest questionnaire.” The conflicts disclosure statement (FORM CIS) and the conflict of interest questionnaire (FORM CIQ) were created by the Texas Ethics Commission (TEC) and are available online at www.ethics.state.tx.us.

Although the TEC created and adopted the forms, it does not have enforcement or interpretative authority. In fact, the TEC did not provide adequate instruction to fill out the form. Therefore, TML has prepared the following Q&A to assist city officials in complying with the bill:

What is H.B. 914?

For most cities, the following officers are subject to H.B. 914:

What triggers the requirement that a city official file a conflicts disclosure statement?

An officer, who is subject to the bill, as outlined above, must file a conflicts disclosure statement within seven days of becoming aware of either of the following situations:

- When the officer or the officer's family member has an employment or business relationship that results in taxable income with a person who has contracted with the local governmental entity or with whom the local governmental entity is considering doing business
- When an officer or the officer's family receives and accepts one or more gifts with an aggregate value of $250 in the preceding twelve months from a person who conducts business or is being considered for business with the local governmental entity.

What is a family member for purposes of this bill?

A family member is defined as a person related to another person within the first degree by consanguinity (blood) or affinity (marriage) (e.g., spouse, father, mother, son, daughter, father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, etc).

Does receiving gifts such as food, lodging, transportation, or entertainment make a local government officer subject to the bill?

No, such gifts, regardless of amount, do not trigger the conflicts disclosure statement.

With whom should the statement be filed?

The statement should be filed with the city's records administrator, which is usually the city secretary.

What happens if a statement is not filed?

An officer who knowingly fails to file the statement commits a class C misdemeanor. A class C misdemeanor is punishable by a fine of up to $500.

Is there a defense to prosecution?

It is a defense to prosecution if the officer files the statement no later than seven business days after the officer receives notice of a violation.

Who must file a "conflict of interest questionnaire"?

Any person who contracts or seeks to contract for the sale or purchase of property, goods, or services with a local government entity (including submitting a bid on a city contract) must file a questionnaire.

To what type of contracts does the bill apply?

Any written contract and any implied contract, such as purchase orders, procurement card purchases, utility purchases, etc. As written, the bill appears to apply to any purchase made by a city. Of course, that interpretation will be extremely burdensome to many cities. A more reasonable interpretation is that the bill only applies to large, written contracts. But the plain language of the bill does not unambiguously support that view. Thus, city officials should consult with local legal counsel to determine how strictly they wish to interpret the bill.

When must a vendor file the conflict of interest questionnaire?

A person who wishes to conduct business with a local governmental entity must file a questionnaire no later than seven days after the date the person begins contract discussions or negotiations with the entity, or submits an application or response to a request for proposals or bids, correspondence, or another writing related to a potential agreement with a local governmental entity.

With whom should the questionnaire be filed?

The questionnaire should be filed with the city's records administrator, which is usually the city secretary.

What other requirements are listed in the bill?

- A city is required to maintain a list of local government officers that are subject to the bill and make the list available to the public.
- A city is required to provide access to the statements and questionnaires on the city's Internet Web site.
